Devika Brij Maurice

Transforming Lives and Careers Through Purpose-Driven Faith and Leadership

Devika Brij Maurice is the Founder and CEO of Brij the Gap Consulting and author of Thrive in Color. Her journey is a powerful testimony of God's grace, resilience and the transformative power of faith in turning life's deepest challenges into purpose-driven triumphs.

Born into a single-parent household, Devika was shaped by her mother's unwavering resilience as an immigrant in North America, juggling multiple jobs to provide for her daughters. Watching her mother sacrifice and persevere instilled in Devika the drive to succeed, but it also highlighted the silent cost of living in survival mode, sacrificing self-advocacy and settling for less than her worth.

For years, Devika excelled at world-renowned organizations like Google and LinkedIn, climbing the ranks to leadership. Yet, her journey was far from smooth. After enduring an unjust termination fueled by bias and relentless micromanagement despite being a top performer, Devika was left questioning her worth and value. In that moment of rejection, her faith became her anchor. Instead of allowing the setbacks and feelings of inadequacy to define her, Devika turned to God, who used that painful chapter as a catalyst for something greater.

She founded Brij the Gap Consulting, a global talent and leadership development firm partnering with top brands like Visa, Meta, Nike, Reddit, Lionsgate and others. Through customized training, she equips individuals and organizations to advocate for themselves, develop leaders and foster thriving, values-driven workplaces.

Her faith-based mission extends beyond her professional success. Devika's story of resilience, self-advocacy and using inadequacy to drive purpose is woven into her book, Thrive in Color: How to Master Self-Advocacy and Command Your Career as an Underrepresented Professional. She also shares her insights on stages across corporate, entrepreneurial and faith-based audiences, delivering actionable tools and frameworks that inspire individuals to find strength in adversity and unlock purpose through our perceived inadequacies.

Today, as the CEO of Brij the Gap Consulting and a sought-after speaker, Devika empowers others to transform their setbacks into opportunities for growth, steward their gifts with excellence and pursue purpose with unwavering faith.

Whether addressing corporate leaders, faith-driven entrepreneurs or Christian audiences seeking resilience and clarity in their purpose, Devika's message is clear: God's plan for you is greater than any challenge, and through Him, every setback can be transformed into a pathway for purpose and impact.
