Where Ambition Meets Anointing

Devika Brij Maurice does not speak about the intersection of faith and work from a distance. She has lived it at the highest level of both worlds simultaneously.

She built her career inside some of the most influential companies in the world including, Google and LinkedIn, before founding Brij the Gap Consulting, a global leadership and talent development firm whose clients include Google, Samsung, Meta, Visa, Nike, and more. She is also the Women's Ministry Director at Activate Church, where she leads and teaches the Word of God in a way that meets women in the reality of where they actually are.

Her testimony was forged in the tension between those two worlds. After an unjust termination stripped her of her successful career, everything the world told her defined her worth, Devika entered a two-year sabbatical she did not choose and a conversation with God she could not avoid. That season did not break her. It built her.

Brij the Gap Consulting was born from that wilderness and so was the message she now carries to every stage: that God is most at work in the seasons that feel most like loss.

She is the author of the award-winning Thrive in Color and is currently writing her second book, Carry Your Mantle. Her work has been featured in Bloomberg, Business Insider, CNBC, NBC, Forbes, Essence and more.

Devika speaks to women who are high-achieving and still hungry for purpose, clarity and for the courage to trust God in the rooms where faith feels most inconvenient. When the world shrinks a woman down to her circumstances, Devika calls her back to the truth of who she was created to be.

Your Title Isn't Your Testimony

You built your identity around a company, a title and a timeline. What happens when God disrupts all three on purpose?

In this talk, Devika confronts the career identity trap that keeps high-achieving women performing for rooms God never called them to. Drawing from her own experience of losing a prestigious career and finding herself on the other side of it more whole than before, she rebuilds a foundation that no termination, layoff or life detour can take away. Women leave knowing their identity that no termination, no rejection and no redirected plan can touch.

Coded By Your Creator

Everything you sacrificed to build your career can now be replicated by a machine in seconds.

In this talk, Devika speaks directly to the woman who is watching artificial intelligence reshape her industry and quietly wondering what she is even worth anymore. Drawing from her career inside some of the world's most influential technology companies, she makes the case that what God built into you was never on the table: your anointing, your discernment and your story cannot be coded, replicated or replaced. Women leave not just reassured but re-anchored in an identity that no technological shift can threaten.

The Work In The Wilderness

Most women are trying to escape the wilderness. In this talk, Devika reveals why God sent you there on purpose.

Drawing from the story of Joseph and her own seasons of professional and personal waiting, she reframes the in-between not as a detour but as the most intentional chapter God will ever write in your life. Women leave with a new theology of delay and the tools to stop surviving the wilderness and start working within it.

The Promise Over The Plan

She has done everything right — built the career, strengthened the faith, shown up with excellence — and there is still one thing God has not yet delivered.

In this talk, Devika speaks openly about choosing obedience over convenience, trusting God's no when every resource and option said otherwise and building a life of purpose in the middle of an unanswered prayer. This is a talk for every woman who is believing God for something that has not come yet and needs permission to keep going anyway. Women leave with the courage to trust God's timeline over their own and the tools to move in purpose while they wait.

Bloom Where You're Planted

Most women are either waiting to arrive somewhere better or watching someone else get there first.

Either way, they are not fully showing up where God actually placed them. In this talk, Devika reframes the frustrating job, the overlooked season and the role that feels beneath your potential as the very place God is preparing you for what comes next. Through her M.A.N.T.L.E.™ framework, she equips women to steward their current assignment with excellence, purpose, and Kingdom intention, because faithfulness in the ordinary is what qualifies you for the extraordinary. Women leave with a practical framework for showing up fully in the season they are actually in.
